Happy Pi Day! We've taken the liberty of publishing 31,415 digits of pi in the paper, both to celebrate the momentous occasion and to inflate our page count, because 1-page issues look bad.

/w's Chat History is Gone Now

By LEMURIA

When the Week Without Chat began, Yagton distributed a script that re-enabled chat, by rerouting it through a different world, /w.

/w was where chatters went to continue chatting on the front page during the Week
Without Chat from Mar. 10 to Mar. 17, 2024.

Yagton (a.k.a. Slaskax)

A Vast Sea of Slurs at Spawn

By LEMURIA

For a couple hours as FP had sweet dreams of banning 10 Starianna IPs simultaneously on OWOT, the real-life version suffered a deluge of racial slurs, particularly the one for black people that ends in a hard R sound.

The web crawler bot was the only thing still standing in the sea of slurs, while the Christa McAuliffe gravestone bot that once graced the area near the bot, remains nowhere to be seen.

Lemuria tried to wipe a small piece of the core, but with a painfully slow 128/s ratelimit, he gave up quickly, the bot returning to the briefly-empty space to restore the slurs once more.

The space that the bot is spamming is about 406x204, and with the slur in question having six characters, you could fit about 13,000 slurs in the area, though the bot doesn't appear to be writing the slurs in an efficient manner.

Though by 11:40 UTC efforts were being made to wipe the sea of slurs, the canvas being squeaky clean by 12:09 UTC.

The area near the SOP returned to non-offensive canvas art while people were once again able to admire the web crawler's progress without having to endure the sea of slurs.

Starianna Strikes Again

By LEMURIA

/neofetch, the World of the Day for Mar. 13, 2024, has had its chat hit either by Starianna or someone with her scripts, again.

"CP-BOT 2.0", as the bot is known, flooded /neofetch chat with the usual messages about CPorn while CJK characters of unknown meaning began to litter the sea of slurs, which by 11:42 UTC Mar. 13 was already starting to disappear thanks to another more dedicated wiper.

One of the messages Starianna sent mentioned Muslim teens, which appears to be some serious timing, with the start of Ramadan, on Mar. 12, 2024.

"This Page Created by Hunter's team Copyright 2017-2024", says one of the final messages from the bot. No link to Starianna can be conclusively confirmed, but the random-colored CJK spam is one of Starianna's signature spam strategies, hence our decision to use Starianna's name in the headline.

However by 14:35, a "PEDOBOT 3.0" had struck /w yet again. It had a new-found

Did Removing Chat Make OWOT Better?

By LEMURIA

The summary is that I believe that the cons slightly outweigh the pros.

On March 10, 2024 (Eastern Time), FP removed the chat from the front page. In the first few days trolls, the N-word, and a vast sea of slurs dominated the canvas.

But now that I've been able to stay awake overnight, with the time being 05:54 Manila / 21:54 UTC as I write this very photograph, I saw a better brighter side of the canvas. I saw beautiful art on the canvas, some people conversing on the canvas, and a glimpse of what OWON would be in a utopian or partially utopian world.

While the chat re-enabler continues to be distributed, not many use it. With FP going all-in on security measures fighting off the spammers and finally figuring out he can just block every single Tor exit node as a whole instead of banning IP by IP.

The low ratelimit of 128 characters per second may also be contributing to an environment like that of /main, though more unstable since the front page is significantly more active than /main.

With low activity at /main, and the consistently high quality of the art, and the trolls dissuaded by ratelimits choosing to go for the low-hanging fruit at the front page, I perceive /main as an ASCII art archival area.

As with everything, pros and cons are always involved. Chat's removal has its fair share, and personally I

How beautiful... an application for OWOT+, a vast underground facility, a big black time measuring device, and the usual beauty of a canvas untainted by a sea of slurs. It is the canvas as screenshotted at 21:33 UTC, Mar. 13, 2024.

One of the main concerns with the chat is that the entire community gets concentrated into one single chat box, which makes it easier for trolls to efficiently troll the entire community and break it apart.

- FP

ment acknowledged how trolls attacking chat could easily disrupt a majority of the community.

Con number one of the chat is the fact that it is insanely unmoderated. OWON has reported on the constant CPorn attacks on the canvas, Starianna lag machines unloading a deluge of CJK characters, and so much more.

Pro number two of the chat is that perhaps it could serve as a "containment area" of sorts.

If most of the community is active on the canvas and seldom uses chat, any Starianna attacks on chat will quickly be ignored.

Con number two of the chat is that it distracts people from the main purpose of the site - an infinite wall of text. The site becomes a chat with an infinite whiteboard, not an infinite whiteboard with a chat.

Pro number three of the chat is that it allows people to prove who they really are.

OWOT accounts work based on Uvias accounts, locked behind usernames and passwords, thus allowing you to send messages in OWOT chat with your name, proving who you truly are. But again, Discord can do pretty much the same thing.

Anyways as I continued to make progress in writing this on 22:56 UTC, Starianna's CJK spam struck spawn again briefly though thankfully FP was quick to restore things.

The mystery author of the OWOT+ application has continued to work on new sections of the ever more bureaucratic application, full of snarky government humor.

Someone pasted a tall man reading a book and in honor of Pi Day a bot now pastes the vast, complex, and beautiful digits of the mathematical constant pi in green.

I love this canvas. I wish spammers wouldn't be so annoying. Unfortunately that's just not the world I live in. Nor is it the world that any of our canvas dwellers reside in. For now, take in the beauty of the canvas while it lasts.

Someone loves their mom enough to paint it on the canvas.

A pantheon of ASCII characters right next to the Square of Publicity. Overwriting the OWOT+ application.

Know a FICTIONAL GOOGOLOGIST?

Report it so we can deport it THE FUCK back to where it FUCKING belongs. Say no to Fictional Googology and stop making up random numbers.

We also deport:
Christa spammers, Nazis, Textwallers, Spammers, Wiper abusers, Script abusers, Kids under 13, Starianna bot users, IP grabber links, etc.

OWOT IMMIGRATION POLICE

Hey there, welcome to the end. I'm surprised you put up with three pages of pi just for 3/14. Now your next challenge is to remember every single one. Have fun!
